Detailed Description of Use:
Teachers can create various lists of resources and books from the media center they would like to curate for specific content topics. For example, teachers have created lists of books for multiplication and division problems. Some have created lists for specific time periods, such as the Civil War or Civil Rights Movement. As long as the list can be based around a single topic, these resource lists can be beneficial to educators in the future. In order to create one of these lists, log into Destiny and sign click on the top tab called, "Catalog". Then, on the sidebar, click on the area for "Resource Lists" and you can either view public lists from other people in the district or you can create your own.
